

SENECTITUDE IN THE CONDITIONS OF THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA: ITS SOCIO-BIOETHIC DIMENSION

Strechi Marina

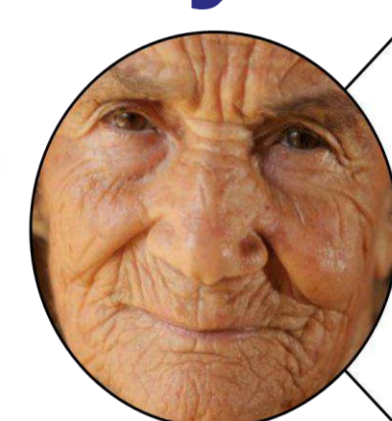

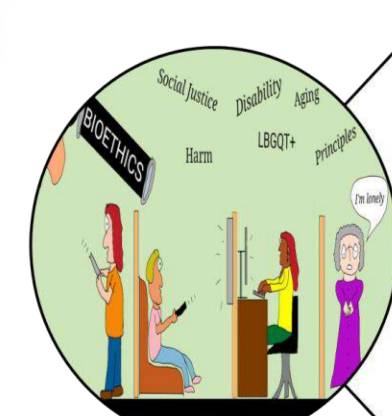

Department of Philosophy and Bioethics, State University of Medicine and Pharmacy “Nicolae Testemitanu”, Chisinau, the Republic of Moldova

Introduction The aging process of the population is inevitable. We all finally reach the age of seniority. Unfortunately, the elderly face economic and social difficulties, many health problems, but the most they are affected by helplessness, loneliness, indifference of relatives and society.

Material and methods

Keywords

-  OLD AGE
-  SOCIAL INTEGRATION
-  LONELINESS
-  INDIFFERENCE
-  BIOETHICAL PRINCIPLES

Results The main social and bioethical problems faced by the elderly were highlighted, following the analysis of the specialized literature and statistical data such as demographic indices, retirement age, number of pension beneficiaries, average pension size, outpatient records:

Chronic diseases	Poverty	Depression	Violated bioethical principle
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• high blood pressure, post-stroke sequelae, diabetes, Alzheimer's disease, dementia</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• low pension</li> <li>• homeless</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• children`s and social indifference</li> <li>• loneliness</li> <li>• helplessness</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• principle of autonomy</li> <li>• principle of justice</li> </ul>

Purpose Studying the phenomenon of old age in the conditions of the Republic of Moldova from a socio-bioethical point of view.

Conclusions

Following the research, we have established that the situation of seniors in the Republic of Moldova is deplorable.